SANTA CLARA, Calif., May 21, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Marvell (NASDAQ: MRVL) today unveiled its new brand, celebrating the company's 25-year anniversary and marking a milestone in its transformation to focus on semiconductor solutions for data infrastructure. The critical nature of that infrastructure has never been more evident than during the current crisis, as it keeps people connected, businesses running, and information flowing. In partnership with the world's leading technology companies, Marvell delivers the essential building blocks that keep the planet running. The company's new brand identity is a symbol of change and represents a new Marvell poised to power what comes next.

Since Marvell's transformation journey began in 2016, the company has made a bold set of moves to position itself for long term success in enterprise, data center, carrier, and automotive markets – including three significant acquisitions and multiple divestitures. As a result, Marvell has assembled the industry's most complete portfolio of semiconductor solutions for data infrastructure, including leadership positions in storage, networking, compute, and security. With its broad portfolio and its flexible and reliable approach to working with its customers, Marvell has become the ideal partner in its target markets.

"I couldn't be prouder of the determination and focus our team has shown in the face of the COVID-19 crisis, coming together to support our customers and communities at a time when it really counts. Our transformation journey has brought together the best and brightest in the industry, we've successfully united under an integrated mission and culture, and today we launch our new brand identity – symbolizing the company we have become."
